on yourself, on others, and on God." I immediately, because I was ready, threw them out. Throughout the course of the year, my relationship with my sister has become real and we are able to love one another honestly and unconditionally. I can now be grateful for all of the wonderful things about my sister, and I can let her be herself without violating my own personal standard for living.

This year when I heard Denny say "Here's how you can be happy every day for the rest of your life. Let go of the blame lists," I could immediately thought. Done! Got it. So glad I did.

Denny - you're amazing! You are so great at doing the correct thing by teaching teaches how to teach, celebrate themselves, and celebrate kids. You're frickin awesome!

God bless you.

Love,

Kim
